A QUICK GUIDE FOR MANAGERS

INTERNATIONAL SOS

SAFELY RESUMING TRAVEL AMIDST COVID-19

Although the future of travel remains uncertain, some significant changes within the aviation and travel industry are underway.

Are you prepared for this travel reality?

- PROTECT YOUR TRAVELLERS
- PROTECT YOUR BUSINESS
- COMPLY WITH LAW

'NEW TRAVEL' reality

- Border restrictions & controls
- COVID-19 testing requirements
- COVID-19 vaccination requirements (country dependent)
- Quarantine / Isolation
- Increased medical risks
- Increased security implications

HOW TO PREPARE FOR BUSINESS TRAVEL

Manager should consider how to navigate the following:

TRAVEL POLICY :
readapt your travel policy , adapt to local guidelines, review and update with relevant stakeholders regularly

HEALTH INTERVENTIONS (TESTING ETC):
Update travel policy inc health interventions, manage testing & quarantine process for travellers, provide information into the health screenings they may face

ASSIGNEE POPULATIONS :
Consider dependents, perform individual risk assessments, provide access to healthcare, teleconsultation, security support , mental health support

INTERNATIONAL TRAVEL:
Monitor ongoing transmissions, consider local restrictions, the security environment , the healthcare capabilities, teleconsulting support, mental health impact and perform a risk assessment

DOMESTIC TRAVEL :
Consider local restrictions, monitor any requirements ie vaccination status if relevant and consider the security environment

DUTY OF CARE:
Clearly communicate risks to stakeholders, provide medical and security support

ASK YOURSELF:

- Is this trip business critical?
- What is the individual risk of for the traveller?
- What is the COVID-19 risk at your destination?
- Do travellers have the mental resilience to manage longer quarantine periods should they get stuck
- How are you tracking the vaccination status of your travellers?
