HEALTHCARE FOR EMPLOYEES THE INTERNATIONAL SOS MAURITANIA SHARED MEDICAL FACILITY

The International SOS shared medical facility in Nouakchott, Mauritania is being set-up by International SOS in partnership with the international oil companies that are currently present and operating in-country with the intention of providing their employees access to international standards of medical care in order to take care of their “Duty of Care” towards their employees and/or their dependents residing in-country.

This shared medical facility provides expatriate physicians who are general practitioners with interest in emergency intensive care and infectious diseases. In addition, we provide national doctors with international medical experience specialising in emergency care and general medical services. Doctors are available with English and French language skills and are accustomed to working in a multinational and multicultural community.

The training and credentials of our International SOS medical team meet stringent international standards for medical professionals.

Healthcare is a top priority whenever employees are sent overseas. Many companies are finding that although international markets are developing rapidly and new markets continue to emerge, many of these markets lack the adequate standards of healthcare in the cities they deploy their people to.

Away from heavily populated international style cities, it can be challenging to find English-speaking medical professionals who can provide international standards of care.

In order to meet the needs of our clients in Mauritania, together with the support of the International Oil Companies (IOC) operating in Mauritania, International SOS has established a shared clinic providing international standards of care to their subscribers. It is staffed with expatriate and local doctors trained in Advanced Cardiac Life Support and Advanced Trauma Life Support, to ensure that clinic subscribers receive the levels of care which they are accustomed to.

The International SOS Mauritania shared medical facility provide quality medical support through its multi-lingual physicians, primary care staff, emergency support team and international standard pharmacy.
